The 13th Annual Pharmacogenetics in Psychiatry Meeting

June 15, 2014
at the Westin Diplomat

3555 South Ocean Drive
Hollywood, FL 33019

About the Program:

The 13th Annual Pharmacogenetics in Psychiatry Meeting will be held in conjunction with the ASCP Annual Meeting, formerly known as NCDEU. While the venue has changed from past years, the annual Pharmacogenetics in Psychiatry meeting will continue to provide a forum for the presentation and discussion of new developments in the rapidly developing field of psychiatric pharmacogenetics. Previous meetings have been highlighted by discussion of topics including: prediction of clinical response to antipsychotic drugs, genes associated with the development of adverse side effects, candidate gene and genome-wide association (GWAS) studies of antidepressant response, the identification of new polymorphisms influencing gene product function, and novel statistical approaches to dissect the heterogeneity of drug response. Moreover, we have brought together investigators working in diverse areas of psychiatric research, from molecular geneticists to clinical trial investigators, from academia and industry, in order to engender true interdisciplinary approaches to the problem of variation in clinical response to psychotropic drugs.
